CONTRACTORS VISIT

BLAIRMORE In an interview we learn that materials will arrive this week and that excavation work will commence on Monday and that the work will be rushed to completion. As far as possible local labor will be employed.

Messrs. Watson & Abercrombie, Calgary contractors who have been awarded the contract to build the new court house here, paid Blairmore a visit on Monday with a surveyor spent the day on the building site.

ANNIVERSARY SERVICES

AT THE UNION CHURCH

The fifth anniversary of the union of Baptist, Presbyterian and Methodist congregations was fittingly celebrated on Sunday and Monday last, when large audiences were privileged to hear Rev. Dr. Kerby in forceful addresses.

On Sunday, at 11 a.m.; Dr. Kerby addressed a young people's service, when the church was well filled with young people and parents and teachers. At 11 a.m. in the afternoon, the junior Sunday School was addressed by Dr. Kerby. At night Dr. Kerby took as his subject "The Challenge of The Age," which was brimful of timely thoughts. At this service the choir rendered two beautiful air songs. On Monday night, Dr. Kerby lectured on "Education's Challenge." The Sunday collection and returns from the lecture amounted to about $413.00, which amount has been placed to the credit of the building fund.

See the large posters just issued from the job department of The Enterprise, announcing the big sale at J. Joseph's, Hillcrest. Joseph has a real bargain fest on and invites everybody to visit his store at any time between the 10th and 31st of March.

ANTEL REMANDED FOR TRIAL

The preliminary hearing of the charge preferred against Harry Antel, of Coleman, by Steve Farion, concluded before Magistrate Gresham at Coleman on Friday last, when Antel was remanded for trial on the charge of theft of some twenty-four cases of liquor. The case will be heard at Blairmore tomorrow (Friday) before Judge McDonald.

Provincial liquor export houses will probably close on March 15th.

BLAIRMORE LOSES TO COAST TEAM BY ONE GOAL MARGIN

After winning the first game at Vancouver last Friday night by 4-3, the Blairmore team lost out in the second game on Tuesday night when the score went 3-1. According to reports in newspapers, it was practically the referee that beat them in the final game. Mackie and Reddick were out of the second match and the British Columbia team was out to win by fair means or foul and apparently they adopted the latter, for the boys are pretty well used up. However, the coast sport writers give the locals the name of being the best amateur team ever seen in Vancouver, and say also that one George Irvine, referee, did not check up the Vancouver players on the dirty work.

The Blairmore boys have nothing to be ashamed of. Their record is a good clean one and they have played the game clean and like real sports all through the season. Out of fifteen games this season they have lost two, not counting the two exhibition games before the league opened. They broke even on them. They have scored 53 goals and 47 have been scored against them, making the average for each game practically 6 to 3 in their favor.

The goals and assists were distributed as follows:

Name	G	A	Pts.
Rennick	29	8	37
Mackie	19	5	24
Turner	12	7	19
Pruden	11	4	15
Reddick	12	1	13
Vejprava	3	6	9
LeVasseur	4	1	5
Harvey	3	1	4

SUPREME COURT SITTING HERE

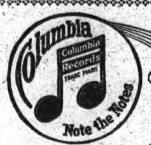

A sitting of the Supreme Court is being held here today and will likely be in session until Saturday, presided over by Judge McDonald, of Macleod. Lawyers in attendance are J. D. Matheson, K.C. of Macleod; Joseph Hicks, of Coleman; D. G. Mackenzie and L. H. Putnam, of Blairmore. Today's session is being occupied by the case of James Conner, of Bellevue, against The Western Canadian Collieries and the Workmen's Compensation Board. Conner was in the employ of the West Canadian Collieries in the early part of 1919, when he was injured by a fall of cap-rock and timber in one of the rooms of Bellevue mine.

PICCARIELLO APPEAL IS DELAYED

OTTAWA, March 7.—The motion for an appeal to the supreme court of the case of Emilio Piccarillo and Florence Lalande, under sentence of death for the murder of Constable S. O. Lawson, at Coleman, Alta., came up today and was postponed until Friday morning. P. Leche, for the defense, stated that there was difficulty in getting copies of the lower court records of the case and asked for a delay.

The court decided that the motion should be heard on Friday, when a date could be set for the appeal.

The general assembly of the Presbyterian church was unanimously requested by the Presbytery of Kamloops, B. C., to proceed without delay to the consummation of the Union of Presbyterian, Methodist and Congregational churches.

Asquith's Decision On Outstanding War Debt Has Been Accepted

London.—Former Premier H. H. Asquith, as arbitrator of the differences between the British and the Canadian Governments relating to an adjustment of debts standing over from the war, has handed down his decision awarding Canada $8,000,000 as a settlement. The Dominion claimed $32,000,000, both sides accepted Mr. Asquith as arbitrator, and for his work he is to receive £1,000.

The dispute was the result of financial negotiations which took place between Canada and the Imperial Government during the war. While hostilities were proceeding, the British Government received advances from Canada of something over one billion dollars. The British treasury, on its part, supplied Canadian troops with food, clothing and munitions, and also British currency for paying Canadian troops.

At the request of this Chancellor of the Exchequer, interim adjustments of the account took place between the two Governments at various dates up until March 1920, at which date the Imperial Government owed Canada over one hundred million dollars.

Mr. Asquith, in giving his award, has allowed the existing account on transactions covered by the interim agreements to stand, and the outstanding balance due to the Canadian Government is to be settled at the "rate of the day" when payments are made. The substance of the decision means that Great Britain has paid the bulk of her balance to Canada with depreciated pounds, but has received par value for them.

Russia Will Try Capitalist System

Change in Government to be Made End of March

London.—Soviet Russia is going to adopt the "capitalist" system of government at the end of March, when the communist congress meets, according to Helsingfors despatches. At that time, Leon Trotsky, War Minister, will take over direction of the Department of Industry and Education, the Daily Herald confirming the above report, states.

The change to a capitalist system will be complete, and will necessitate the turning over of power to a group representing the trade unions and co-operative Socialists. Under the new regime the tasks of fostering industry and education are considered the most important, whereas Trotsky will be asked to take over one of the other.

CATTLE READY FOR EXPORT

100,000 AVAILABLE FOR SHIPMENT THIS YEAR IS FORECAST

Montreal.—W. A. Coates, director of several shipping interests, declared that his company's survey showed that between 90,000 and 100,000 Canadian store cattle would be available for shipment to Britain this year.

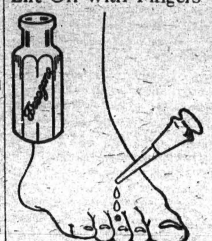

Mr. Coates pointed out that during the war, when the cattle rate was $45 per head, there was not a rush for the business. How much there will be now with rates from $20 to $22.50 per head, is a speculative matter, he said.

Victoria Bank Clerk Murdered

Victoria, B.C.—Ernest Lionel Loren, 20, a clerk in the Royal Bank of Canada office here, was murdered on his way home, shortly after leaving a street car. The young man was shot as he proceeded to his home, where he resided with his widowed mother. No motive for the crime can be ascertained. The body had not been disturbed when found.

OIL RESERVE IN ALASKA

THIRTY-FIVE THOUSAND ACRES SET ASIDE BY STATE

Washington.—President Harding, by executive order, set aside an area of more than thirty-five thousand square miles in the northwest section of Alaska as an oil reserve to insure fuel for the navy. The reserve adjoins the corner of Alaska between Cape Cape and Cape Barrow, and is bounded by the Arctic Ocean on the north and west and the Endicott range of mountains and the Colville River on the south and east. It is for the most part flat, grassy tundra, devoid of vegetation, sparsely populated and entirely within the Arctic Circle.

The reservation, according to Secretary Fall, of the Interior Department, will be of the greatest importance to the navy since, for years, seaplane oil have been found all along the seacoast.

Declare Against Bi-Lingualism

Manitoba Trustees Defeat Motion to Teach French in Schools

Winnipeg.—For the third consecutive year, the Manitoba School Trustees' Association defeated a motion for the introduction of bi-lingualism to the public schools of Manitoba. The motion was voted down by about 2 to 1.

Strong arguments were advanced by several speakers for the teaching of the French language in schools where a majority of the children desire it. Opponents, however, characterized this as being "the thin end of the wedge," and one speaker stated that Manitoba was no longer a bilingual, but a multi-lingual province, in which the Rutenian, German and Polish speaking people had, by virtue of their numbers, claims equally as great as those of the French.

Centenarian Has Only Had 23 Birthdays

Winnipeg.—Although he recalls only 23 birthdays, J. S. Stevenson, of Winnipeg, entered his hundredth year March 1 and he is hearty. Mr. Stevenson was born February 29, 1824, and has been celebrated on about 75 birthdays. He even skipped a leap year birthday which was rightfully his in 1906, when he was eight years of age, as he was mislaid again. Mr. Stevenson came to Canada when he was nine years old and moved from Ontario to the Oak Lake district of Manitoba 40 years ago, where he carried on farming operations.

HER HEART SKIPPED EVERY THIRD BEAT

Mrs. James Burleigh, 248 King St. E., Chatham, Ont., writes: "I think it my duty to let you know of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills have done for me."

I suffered for years with palpitation of the heart, my nerves were very bad, and I could not be left alone at any time. I doctored for over a year, and the doctor said my heart was very bad as it skipped every third beat.

I gave up, just at this time, and then my mother advised me to try Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, saying my eldest brother had been relieved by using them when he was very bad with his heart and nerves. I got a box and started to take them, and when I had used it I felt a lot better; could sleep a little and felt stronger. I continued taking them for about three months, and felt better than I had for years.

When I think of the misery and suffering I went through before I started Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, I feel like telling everyone who what they did for me."

British Payments on U.S. Debt

Chancellor of Exchequer Gives Figures For 62-Year Term

London.—Stanley Baldwin, Chancellor of the Exchequer, replying to a question in the House of Commons said that, on the basis of the 62-year term for payment of the debt to the United States, the payments on the debt would be as follows:

An immediate cash payment of $1,125,000; an annual payment of $161,000,000 for ten years and a final payment of $118,481,330 or an aggregate of $2,246,000,000 at par of exchange, and four per cent. more at 4.68.

These figures, he said, had no meaning except in relation to the 62-year term. If Great Britain paid more speedily then the aggregate would be reduced.

Searchers Find Hunter's Body

Charles Allard Died of Exposure in Cowichan Hills

Victoria.—The body of Charles Allard, the Cowichan cougar hunter, who has been missing since February 12, was found Feb. 27 by search parties, less than a mile from Jones' Cabin, B.C., in the Cowichan Hills. Apparently he died of cold and exposure soon after he separated from his partner, Albert Sackett, formerly of Calgary, who was found five days ago crazed and starving, and is now slowly recovering in Cowichan hospital. The two men were trailing a cougar and struck different trails from their dogs. A snowstorm obliterated their trails and they were lost in the hills.

Rev. James Farthing, Anglican Bishop of Montreal, in the course of an address here.

Railway Watchman Murdered

C.N.R. Employee at Ashcroft, B.C. Riddled by Bullets

Ashcroft, B.C.—Dan Sullivan, 74 years old, a watchman on the Canadian National Railway, five miles east of here, was found dead with six bullet holes in the region of his heart, one entering through his mouth, and the tip of one finger being shot off. Apparently the motive for the crime was not robbery, as a number of checks and $40,000 in cash was found in the dead man's pocket.

U.S. Clearing Up Obligations in England

Overdrafts of $20,000 Left Outstanding By Army Officers

London.—Following the steps taken by the British Government to settle its war-time debts to the United States, the United States Government has begun clearing up odds and ends of United States obligations in this country. The inventions commission sent to England recently, is holding daily sessions to hear claims which will cost the United States Government thousands of dollars, while the historic banking firm of Messrs. Cox has just received from Washington about $20,000 to pay overdrafts of approximately 50 United States officers.

These military men during the war took advantage of the bank's liberality and then left England without settling their accounts.

THE LAND OF GIANT CRATERS

The first lecture given in England on the wonderful region of extinct craters in Northern Tanganyika was given to the African Society recently at the Royal Society of Arts by Mr. T. Alexander Barnes. Until Mr. Barnes led an exploration party into this region in March, 1921, and wrote some articles the existence of gigantic craters of extinct volcanoes swarming with wild animals was almost unknown, even to Englishmen in Africa. They had been explored to some extent by Germans, in whose former territory East Africa they are situated.

Mr. Barnes, with the help of some remarkable photographs, gave a description of the greatest of these craters, that of Ngorongoro. Ngorongoro was, he said, the largest unbroken crater on the earth's surface. It is about 125 miles west of Kilimanjaro. It is one of a large number of huge craters of similar formation—in the country farther north many greater volcanoes are still active. Ngorongoro is a crater surrounded by escarpments 2,000 feet high. It is about 15 miles in diameter and 35 miles in circumference. Mr. Barnes related how he climbed up the great lip of the crater with the help of Masai guides. Round the lip on the inner side they found a belt of tropical forests. They came afterwards to a glade which was full of game, giant hog, bush buck, rhino and elephant. Farther on there was open country with patches of primeval forest and in the wide floor of the crater there was a large lake. The party spent about three weeks in the crater, camping in different places. It was swarming with wild animals of every kind—there were perhaps 75,000 head of game there that never went outside the walls of the crater.

The explanation of such a huge number of beasts being able to live in that confined space was that the ground was rich pasture of white and red clover, which provided plenty of food. There were many lions in the crater, and the party camped in a place which was their chief haunt. Sir Charles Ross, who was a member of the party and has since purchased the crater, shot three lions. The place referred to was a forest of huge euphorbia trees. Mr. Barnes gave an interesting account of the rich flowers of a European nature, such as the strawberry, pansies, Canterbury bells, daisies, and violets. There were anemones of various pinks four inches across, lilies, and sweet-smelling larkspur. He explored the surrounding country, and showed a fine colored photograph he had taken of an enormous active volcano known to the Masai, who worship it as "The Mountain of God."

The country round the volcano is steaming and uninhabited for 25 miles. The volcano erupted during the war, and the Masai think that it erupts cattle, as they regard it as a source of wealth. They can not be induced to approach it. The mountain shines pink in the sun. The sides, which look as if they were sculptured into strange shapes, are composed of saline, mud, ashes and soda. There were some photographs of splendid Masai warriors with the long metal spears with which they kill the lions that attack the cattle.

The region, Mr. Barnes said, contains fossil remains of prehistoric man and gigantic extinct animals of the dinosaur type. It was greatly to be wished that a well-equipped scientific expedition should go out and thoroughly explore this wonderful land. Mr. Barnes also described an expedition made farther south, into the swampy inhabited by the Evandas, to obtain specimens of gorillas. He found gorillas of great size living in a bamboo forest on the side of another extinct crater. The gorillas lived on young shoots of asparagus. One of the gorillas was over six feet high, and the photographs shown gave a good notion of the size and strength of these human-looking beasts. One of Mr. Barnes' specimens is now in the Rothschild Museum at Tring.—Manchester Guardian.

SHOULD HAVE BEEN SOAKED THE LIMIT

The Clarendon Review-Advertiser of last week states: "Two weeks ago William Gerrard, of Staveley, received threatening letters signed 'Ku Klux Klan.' He was alarmed and placed the matter in the hands of Corporal Hudson, of the Provincial Police, who soon had two suspects lined up. On Saturday last Frank Maddocks and Jack Sykes, of the Staveley district, were up in court before Magistrate Gresham, of Blairmore. They were found guilty and fined twenty-five dollars and costs each, and were each placed under bonds of $100 to not repeat the offense. The affair appears to have grown out of some trouble not long ago between Gerrard and the two young men."

FAMOUS SPIRE IN DANGER

Heavy traffic in the surrounding streets is threatening the famous spire of Salisbury Cathedral, the tallest in England.

For 500 years the spire has reared its height of 404 feet out of the green valley of Avon without signs of deterioration.

Engineers recently found, however, that it leaned 23 inches from the perpendicular. Vibration from heavy motor traffic are believed to have caused this and it will be necessary to at once begin the work of strengthening the foundation.

A police order has been issued prohibiting heavy trucking in the immediate vicinity of the church.

POOLING THE BUGS

A motorist in the South once stopped for water at a dilapidated house where a bare-footed man, leaning against a rickety fence, was gazing meditatively across the field that had grown up to weeds. "How is your cotton this year," asked the motorist.

"Well, sir," replied the man, "I ain't got no cotton. I didn't plant none cause I was afraid the boll weevil might be bad."

"How is your corn?"

"Well," came the reply, "I didn't plant no corn neither, for I didn't know if we'd get rain."

The motorist hesitated. "How are your sweet potatoes?" he asked at last.

"Well, now, stranger," the man replied, "you see, it's just this way: I didn't plant no sweet potatoes cause I was afraid the bugs might take them. No, sir, I didn't plant nothin'. I just played safe."

CRIME AND DIVORCE IN THE NEWSPAPERS

The following resolution has been sent to the Prime Minister, the Lord Chancellor, and the Home Secretary by the Manchester Sunday School Union:—"The executive of the Manchester Sunday School Union, representing 50,000 scholars and teachers, views with concern the practice of many newspaper of publishing details of a pernicious nature in connection with divorce and criminal proceedings, the tendency of such publicity being particularly dangerous to the moral and spiritual well-being of the boys and girls of the nation. The Executive of the Manchester Sunday School Union urge upon his Majesty's government the vital necessity of safeguarding the morals of the children of the nation by the suppression of details of such a revolting and sordid nature in newspaper reports."—Manchester Guardian.

WALTZING

Down in Spokane the other evening 1500 people attended a waltzing contest. This dance was but one of several held in that city during the past three years. They are held under the most approved rules and prizes as high as $70 were awarded. The judges of these contests are experts and every contestant must execute the true waltz step. About thirty couples were recognized as qualified performers, after nearly three years of instruction. There is no "kick waltz step," neither is there an "old waltz step." There is only one waltz step. It is a definite thing without omission or evasion, and the real waltz is a thing of beauty. Some dancers go about it locked in deadly embrace with drawn faces and to all appearances suffering extreme torture; others simply jump into a half-nelson and do a combination jig and elephant step; others content themselves with the Graceo-Roman side-hold with a sort of a frog motion; the tall man and the willowy girl adopt the more subtle jiu-jitsu style, while the hard-boiled prefer the catch-as-catch-can with toe and scissor-hold barred.

CRIME AND PUNISHMENT

Why do we in the United States have so unsavory a record both for the number of murders that are committed here and for the number that go unpunished? We have had a bad reputation in that respect for years, and show no signs of being ashamed of it or trying seriously to reform.

In the past our misdeeds have been excused on the ground that the United States was, and always has been, a country with a long and disorderly frontier; or, erogenous, with no common standards of conduct; or on the ground that liquor was widely sold and consumed here. But our frontier has disappeared, our immigration is restricted, the sale of liquor is forbidden, and still we committed more murders in 1921 than ever before, and probably a smaller proportion of the murderers were caught or punished.

In twenty-eight of the largest cities in the country—cities that contain one fifth of our entire population—there were in 1921 more than nine murders for every one hundred thousand inhabitants. That is almost twice as many as occurred twenty years ago, though even then the rate was so high as to put us below the other civilized nations. In some cities the number of murders is incredibly large. In Memphis it is more than fifty-six in the hundred thousand, yet Memphis is one of the few cities that in the past ten years have reduced the number of homicides.

Still more disturbing is the ease with which murderers escape detection, or, if detected, escape punishment. The statistics on that point are not very exact, but the condition is notorious. Day after day the newspapers report murders for which no one is ever arrested, and when the indictment is found the chances are still against conviction. Juries will almost never find women guilty of murder, and they will accept all reasonable—and some unreasonable—excuses for acquitting a man. In New York in 1920 the number of convictions was about one to every ten murders. In the whole country the rate has been declared by the commission of inquiry of the American Bar Association to be as low as one conviction to every sixty-five murders. Across the border in Canada there is a conviction for every two or three murders. Why should there be that difference? Are Americans such lovers of violence, so careless of human life, so defiant of law, so sentimentally sympathetic with the man who revenges his injuries in human blood?

One thing is certain: there is casual connection between our slackness in punishing crimes of violence and their increasing frequency. If our police ever begin to show energy and intelligence in tracking down murderers and if our criminal courts then endeavor to make the trial prompt and expeditious, and if our juries can be got to regard manslaughter for whatever cause, not as a mere pardonable eccentricity, but as a serious offense, the number of murders will immediately decrease. Until those conditions are fulfilled the improvement in the situation will be slow.—Youths' Companion.

WHAT THE CLIMBERS OF EVEREST LEARNED

Mr. George Leigh Mallory, one of the men who took part in the daring attempt to reach the summit of Mount Everest last summer, is now in the United States. Mr. Mallory has a great deal that is interesting to tell us about the experiences that he and his companions had on the slopes of the highest mountain in the world, and he is sanguine that efforts to scale the summit will eventually succeed.

The climbing party last summer reached a height of 27,000 feet, which was only about 1700 feet short of the top. The remaining distance did not offer any special difficulties in mountaineering. The slope was not too steep, and the footing in the snow was fairly good; but the extreme rarity of the atmosphere at such a height makes every step a task of tremendous difficulty. You have to take a pro-longed and deep breath before each step, and that step exhausts you. The winds at such an elevation are often if not usually strong, and the human body, weakened by the inadequate supply of oxygen cannot face them long.

Mr. Mallory adds that the intense sunlight seems to have a singularly debilitating effect. The rays of the sun here tempered by no considerable blanket of air, strike fiercely, and the ultra-violet rays, the force of which is considerably reduced in a dense atmosphere, have their full effect at high altitudes. No one knows exactly why the sunlight is so enervating, but it is probably because of some physiological action of the chemical rays against which the atmosphere normally protects the body. Of course the air is always cold at 27,000 feet, often below zero, and the contrast between the cold of these parts that are not exposed to the sun and the heat of those parts on which the light strikes is another cause of discomfort and perhaps of debilitation.

Some of the climbers last summer carried tanks of oxygen on their backs on which they could draw in time of need. Others did not. Those who were artificially supported by oxygen got only 250 feet higher than those who breathed the natural air; they had the bother of carrying the extra weight of the tanks, and exhaustion affected them more severely than it did the others. Nevertheless, Mr. Mallory thinks that the tanks are useful, and that a party can always get a little higher with them than without them.

It is interesting to know that the climbers at the last lived chiefly on candy and other forms of sugar. That is the best quick fuel for producing muscular energy. The climber cannot spare the bodily heat and the physiological effort that would be required to digest meat or bread. Sugar also has a distinct stimulating effect that is helpful. At the highest altitudes you cannot get much water to drink. You cannot stop often to melt snow. If you eat much snow it upsets the stomach and chills the entire system.

Mr. Mallory says that mere existence at altitudes of above 20,000 feet, even without hard exertion, is difficult. It leads to nervous irritability, to disturbances of the circulation and to a sort of starvation of the cells of the body. Nevertheless, there is an extraordinary fascination about mountaineering at high altitudes, as there is about every struggle with the hostile powers of nature. The next expedition is planned for the spring and early summer of 1924, and preparations for it are already under way.

HILLCREST HAPPENINGS

Auto owners are busy these days polishing up and getting last year's mud off.

Support home industries by paying a visit to Billy White's new barber shop, where you will find an up-to-date tonsorial parlor.

All aboard for the big dance in the Union hall on the 16th, given by that live organization, the Knights of Pythias. Mrs. Altermatt's orchestra will be in attendance.

Jack O'Neill, of Blairmore, continues to be a regular visitor to Hillcrest, especially on pay days. It is to be hoped that this gladdy young fellow will settle down here some day.

If there is going to be anything done about the skating rink on next season, now is the time to get busy. Call a public meeting and let the subject be discussed pro and con.

The regular convention of the K. of P. No. 16 was held in the Castle hall on Tuesday evening last. Several new members received their first degree, after which a good feed. Boys, it's great!

Joe Royle, Hillcrest's violinist, is busy these days, having more calls than he can fill, except in his own town. Of course, that's the usual way all over—home reared talent is never appreciated but it will be some day.

The town is all agog over the big wedding, for which invitations are out. It takes place on the 29th, and it is to be hoped that our genial school principal can see his way clear to give the kiddies a half holiday, so they can all attend the celebration.

The dance given in the Union hall on the 26th February by the Football Club was a complete success from every point of view, with the result that the coffers of the club are replenished greatly. Everything points to a very successful season. Aston Villa's colors have been adopted. Another entertainment is on the carpet for the club in the near future. Keep a good look out for bills. The club has a good set of officers this time and means business.

A subscriber finds this amusing jingle in a volume of "ancient keepsakes":

Do ships have eyes when they go to sea?
Are there springs in the ocean's bed?

Does a jolly tar flow from a tree?
Does a river lose its head?

Are fishes crazy when they go insane?
Can an old hen sing her lay?

Can you bring relief to a window pane?
Or mend the break of day?

What sort of a vegetable is a policeman's beat?

Is a newspaper white when its read?

Is a baker broke when he's making dough?

Is an undertaker's business dead?

Would a wall paper store make a good hotel?

Because of the boarders there?

Would you paint a rabbit on a bald man's head?

Just to give him a bit of hare?

Would you pay a policeman with silver coin?

For nickels aren't made for coppers?

Is a grass widow married a grass widow?

Would their children be grasshoppers?

If you ate a square meal would the corners hurt?

Can you dig with the ace of spades?

Would you throw a rope to a drowning lemon?

Just to give a lemonade?

Miss Blair, of St. John, N. B., as "Miss Canada," has refused two offers, one from a Halifax chocolate firm for permission to use her picture in the advertising of products of the firm and the other from a firm of cigar manufacturers in Montreal. The former offer was $14,000 and the latter $40,000. Miss Blair wished to do nothing to cheapen the honor of the position conferred upon her.

THE PASS FIFTEEN YEARS AGO

(From Frank Paper 908.)

August 29—Sad news were contained in an Associated Press dispatch yesterday, a notice of the death of Hon. H. L. Frank, founder of the coal industry in The Pass and after whom the town of Frank was named. H. L. Frank for the past thirty years has been a most prominent figure in a political and business way. He died in Cincinnati, Ohio. He was 67 years of age and a bachelor. In 1886 he was elected mayor of Butte, Montana, and served two terms, declining a third. He established the town of Frank in 1901.

Peter Collette, the French photographer, who hails from Brittany, has taken rooms at the Cosmopolitan hotel, Blairmore.

Capt. Beebe, of Blairmore, is busy these days collecting poll taxes. This is the first time Blairmore has been called upon for this tax and quite a lot of explanations have been necessary, the Captain having to be the parrot.

The new house of Thomas Frayer at Blairmore, is almost completed. It is a commodious dwelling of original design and can well be described as unique.

The much-discussed subject as to whether the school books furnished Alberta and Saskatchewan by the Morang Company are printed by non-union printers in New York, has at last been definitely settled by the Regina Leader. It was found that the printers were unionized.

Joe Furschong is proving himself quite an animal trainer. A week ago he secured a young wolf, nearly half grown, which to all appearances was perfectly wild. He now has the animal so he can handle it as one would a pet dog.

A baby girl was born on Friday last to Mr. and Mrs. J. Baird.

Frank Gebo left last evening for Utica, N.Y., to enter the military academy at that place.

Jake Whiller has severed his connection with the coal company and leaves in a few days for other parts. Mr. Whiller is one of the largest property owners in Frank and his absence will be keenly felt.

J. P. Povah, chief accountant for the International Coal Company, received a shock through the medium of the Associated Press when the news of the burning of the steamer Premier on Lake Winnipeg appeared. Mr. Povah's sister, Miss Mary Elizabeth, was a passenger on the ill-fated steamer and was numbered among the lost. Miss Povah was a teacher and was on her summer vacation.

August 27—Reuben Steeves, proprietor of the Imperial hotel, met death by drowning in a slough while duck hunting near Staveley on Tuesday of this week. Reuben Steeves was one of the best known residents of The Pass. He was a pioneer in the district, having come to Blairmore as agent for the C.P.R. in 1901, when there was no Frank. In the fall of that year he left the service of the C.P.R. and built the Imperial hotel in Frank. He also established a brick-making plant in Frank the year after the slide.

Henry E. Lyon, of the Western Mercantile Co., has taken over the editorial pen of the Coleman Miner.

Billy Moore and Bob Johnson, formerly of Frank, are now conducting the Columbia Bar at Spokane and issue a cordial invitation to any friends from this district to visit them.

G. E. C. Martin and family, of Blairmore, are moving to Frank and will live in the laboratory building at the smelter.

An excursion from Lethbridge to Crow's Nest was run Friday last by the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen. About two hundred took in the trip. Andy Goode made things agreeable for them.

"No. You wait for me at the pine. You'll have to rustle your grub the best way you can. I may not get back until to-morrow—until this evening—It's morning now. But wait until I come. There will be plenty for you to do later on and there is no use of your going back to town with me. It might get you into worse trouble than you're headed for already, and what I've got to do, I can do alone."

Whooping his horse, he rode off toward Crawling Water.

That he could take his men with him, storm the jail and get away, Wade did not doubt, but to do so would be to bring each of the men into open conflict with the law, a responsibility which he was resolved to bear alone. Then, too, because his long ride had been a lonely one, he intended to make one more appeal to the Senator. Possibly, Moran had exceeded his instructions, and that was so, it was no more than just that Rexhill, who had seemed to evince a willingness to be helpful, should have the opportunity to discuss the act of his agent. Besides, if Santry could be peacefully released, he would be freed of the charge hanging over him, which would not be the case if he were taken from the jail by strategy or violence.

With haggard countenance and inflamed eyes, Wade bore little resemblance to his normal self, when he again appeared before the Senator, who received him in his dressing-gown, being just about the time that Rexhill listened with a show of sympathy to his cattleman's story, but evidently he was in a different mood from the day before.

"My boy, your friendship for your foreman is leading you astray. Your faith in him, which is natural and does you credit, is blinding you to an impartial view of the case. Why not let the law take its course? If Santry is innocent his trial will prove it. At any rate, what can I do?"

"Senator—" Wade spoke with intense weariness. "Only yesterday you offered to help me. The situation as I explained it then is unchanged now, except for the worse. Bill Santry is free of all complications, and his death. I am positive of it. He sent me word that he had not left the ranch, and he would not let me say himself from hanging. Besides, the men were shot in the back, and that is absolute proof that Santry didn't do it."

"More sentiment, Gordon; mere sentiment. Front! Post!"

Rexhill's slightly contemptuous tone worked upon Wade in his exhausted, overwrought condition, and he slung aside a strange look of cunning appeared in his eyes, as he leaned across the table which separated them.

"Senator, Moran made me an offer the other day for my land. If I accept that offer, he would exert my influence in Santry's behalf!"

Coming so swiftly upon his planning, the prospect of the deal, and the only way in which Rexhill could be maintained in a show of decency and respect. His countenance expressed exultant relief as well it might, since he seemed to

Mrs. McMahon Tells How She Found Relief by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Chatham, Ont.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for a run-down condition after the birth of my baby boy. I had terrible pains and backache, and was tired and weak, not fit to do my work and care for my little children. One day I received your little book and read it, and gave up taking the medicine I had been taking the Vegetable Compound. I feel much better now and am not ashamed to tell what it has done for me. I recommend it to any woman I think feels as I do."

Mrs. J. R. McMahon, 153 Harvey St., Chatham, Ont.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has for nearly fifty years been restoring ailing women to health and strength. It relieves the troubles which cause such symptoms as backache, constipation, irregularities, tired, worn-out feelings and nervousness. This is shown again and again by such letters as Mrs. McMahon writes, as well as by one woman telling another. These women know, and are willing to tell others, what it did for them; therefore, it is surely worth your trial.

see himself snatched out of the jaws of ruin.

"What, Gordon, I— Of course, my boy, if you were to show such a generous spirit as that, I—er—should feel bound to—"

"The sense of his marks was lost in the crash of Wade's fist upon the table."

"The cattleman was beyond himself with fatigue, rage, and a rankling sense of injustice. 'They told me that you—er—should feel bound to—'

"What is the law?" she demanded anxiously.

"I beg your pardon," Wade spoke awkwardly, uncharacteristically of himself, except for her. "I'm worn out and I—"

"Will you—leave the room!"

The Senator was beginning to pull himself together. It was the first time he had seen Wade in a way, and his composure had suffered; he spoke now more than his usual spontaneity.

"I will," Wade answered curtly, as he turned on his heel and departed.

The Senator, sitting listless, fidgeted with his glasses.

"Your young friend has seen fit to accuse me of a crime," he said to himself, "he could not at once say of just what he had been accused, unless he had the necessary evidence to prompt his words."

"Some shepherds have been murdered, I believe," he went on, "but I don't think that Moran and I are implicated."

"You," his daughter exclaimed; evidently her amazement did not extend to Moran.

"Preposterous nonsense!"

"Yes, of course," Helen walked to the window and stood looking down into the street. "I'm afraid Gordon hasn't improved, since we saw him last. He's still a little off his head."

"I used to think that Moran and I were implicated," she said.

"Crush him!" The Senator's lips set in a thin, white line, as his hand descended on the table on the spot where Wade's fist had fallen. "This, apparently, is his gratitude to me for putting him in the jail."

"Certainly, no one can blame you for punishing him," she said, "but between him and me is quite over."

"He's a perfect idiot," she said, "I'm glad you feel that way about it. Helen? Her father's set lips relaxed into a responsive smile. 'You couldn't be my daughter and not have some sense.'"

"Have I any?" Helen naively asked.

"She was gazing out of the window again, and to her mind's eye the dusty, old street, with its row of jewellers' shops on either side, and modistes, and other such things, seemed to be the same as they were found in New York, or—Paris!"

CHAPTER VIII.
Higher Than Statute Law

Wade descended the stairs of the hotel and went into the barroom, where he found a bottle of whisky.

Helen had seen him in such a temper. Like most men of action, he took pride in his self-control, which he believed to be the mark of a gentleman.

Gathered about the bar were a number of men whom he knew, but beyond the usual rough and ready he took no notice of them, and went to sit down alone at a small table in the corner.

He ordered a steak, which on top of the whiskey put new life into him.

The more he thought of his outburst of temper before Helen the more it annoyed him, for he realized that he had "blown off a bigger wad than he could chew."

As Bill Santry would have expressed it, Rascal thought the Senator was, so far as he was concerned, Wade felt that his hands were tied of Helen's account. For her sake, he could not move against her father in a country where the attorney must thought of consequences after the act rather than before it.

In a sense Wade felt that the Senator was Crawling Water in the hospitality which is offered Helen, and he could not bring herself down on her head.

But as for Moran and his hirelings, that was a different matter. When the ranchman thought of Moran, he might get his hands on Moran in the mix-up. He still looked upon his old visit to Rexhill as a weakness, but it had been undertaken solely on Santry's account. It had failed and no one more could expect toleration of him except Helen. If the posse was still at the ranch, when he and Santry returned there at the head of their men, they would attack in force, and shoot to kill if necessary.

He learned from Lem Trowbridge, who presently joined him at the table, that the posse would probably still be there, for the report in town was that Moran had taken possession of the property and meant to stay there.

"He does, eh?" Wade muttered grimly. "Well, he may, but it will be with his toes up. I'm done, Lem. By Heaven, it's more than flesh and blood can stand!"

"It sure is! We're with you, Gordon. Your men were over at the place a few hours ago."

"Thanks."

"If you're all right. You're more than welcome to all the help I can give you, not only against Moran and his gang, but against the posse."

"YOUR TEETH"

CHILDREN'S HABITS

By Rex Procter, M.D., D.S., Pittsburgh, Pa.

Habits formed in childhood are very difficult to break. The younger the child, the more quickly a habit is formed.

Their experience having been so limited, they very quickly become accustomed to almost any new diversion that may come their way. Many of the things that, at the time, seem trivial, will have a severe effect in after years.

One of the worst habits that a young child forms is that of thumb sucking. Many mothers would rather have the baby quiet and happy and sucking its thumb than dissatisfied with life in general and tugging Cain.

But the sucking of the younger, by this method will cause a great deal of difficulty.

When a child sucks its thumb it pushes the roof of the mouth upward so that it makes a very high arch; and as the roof of the mouth is the floor of the nose, the nasal cavity is reduced and the septum of the nose is pushed over to the right or to the left—usually to the left.

The upper teeth in front, along with the bone in which they are imbedded, are pushed forward and upward, and the lower front teeth and the surrounding bone are pushed inward and downward so that the arrangement of the teeth, that was intended by nature, is very seriously interfered with.

The constant drawing, from sucking the thumb, extends to the accessory cavities and there is almost a certainty that adenoids will be developed if this habit is continued for any considerable period.

Thumb sucking interferes with the shape of the face, the mouth, the nose, the position of the teeth, the ability to masticate and changes the tone of the voice.

Don't you think it is rather an expensive method of amassing a child?

Those who have allowed their children to keep up this undesirable habit for a number of years have been the indirect cause of inconvenience, disease and disfigurement to the children.

The time to stop a child from sucking its thumb is the first time you see it do the act.

Start right and don't let up until the habit is broken.

Stopping Wrong Reports

Given Good Start They Are Hard to Overtake

Is there any one trying to overtake a wrong report that has had a good start? Several years ago somebody started the report to the effect that the late Professor Osler had said in the course of an address that a man's working time was over at the age of 60, and that he might, or should be, chloroformed. Ever since well-meant but futile efforts have been made to overtake the report and stop it. It is said that Osler himself never took the trouble to make a correction; probably he knew it would be useless.

What he did say was probably more important than what he was reported to have said; but it was not so startling, and it is the startling thing, rather than the more important thing, that appeals to the imagination and remains in the memory.—Chatham Daily News.

Marriageable Ages

Fourteen is Considered Right Age in Some European Countries

In Germany a man must be at least eighteen years of age before he can marry.

In Portugal a boy of fourteen is considered marriageable, and a woman twelve.

In Greece a man must have seen at least fourteen summers and the woman twelve.

In France the man must be eighteen and the woman sixteen, and in Belgium the same ages.

In Spain the intended husband must have passed his fourteenth year and the woman her twelfth.

In Switzerland men from the age of fourteen and women from the age of twelve are allowed to marry.

In Turkey any youth and maiden who can walk properly and can understand the necessary religious service are allowed to be united for life.

Do you wish to be loved? One way that lies close at hand is this: Never criticize those about you unnecessarily. At home and abroad this rule, the complainer, the grouchy is not loved. Is it any wonder?

Spanish Prisoners Ransomed

An official statement issued a few days ago at Madrid says that the Spanish prisoners held by the Moroccan have been ransomed and are being embarked for Spain. This is briefly summarized the latest act in one of the grim tragedies of modern Spain, in which government after government has been compelled to acknowledge the failure of its colonial policy, cabinets have been overthrown, popular idiosyncrasy and thousands of Spanish youths killed by savage Moroccan tribesmen.

In parts of South America the people hold a civil engineer in such great esteem that when they call a man a doctor without any qualification they mean that he is a doctor, not of medicine, but of engineering.

Motor Traffic Menace To Ancient Building

Engineers Find Spire of Salisbury Cathedral Needs Repairing

Heavy traffic in the surrounding streets is threatening the famous spire of Salisbury Cathedral, the tallest in England. For 600 years the spire has reached its height of 404 feet out of the green valley of the Avon without visible signs of deterioration.

Engineers recently found, however, that it leaned 23-inches from the perpendicular. Vibrations from heavy motor traffic are believed to have caused this and it will be necessary at once to begin the work of strengthening the foundation. A police patrol has been supervising heavy traffic in the vicinity of the cathedral.

Made First Locomotive
Honor Belongs to Matthew Murray, an English Engineer.
The great George Stephenson did not as some believe make the first successful locomotive. That honor belonged to an English engineer, Matthew Murray by name. Murray's production was the famous Blenkinsop, a steam engine of four horse-power, which, on June 24th, 1812, at four o'clock in the afternoon, started with a burden of eight wagons of coal, each weighing three and a quarter tons, and fifty passengers. Murray died in 1826, aged sixty-one. Stephenson declared he could improve upon the Murray engine, and did it as everyone knows.

A MOTHER'S HEALTH NEEDS GREAT CARE

Care of Home and Children Often
The woman at home, deep in household duties and the care of motherhood, needs occasional help to keep her in good health. The general health of a mother's health are many and severe. Her own health trials, broken rest and much indoor living tend to weaken her constitution. No wonder that the woman at home is often indisposed through weakness, headaches, backaches and nervousness. Too many women have grown to accept these visitations as a part of the lot of motherhood. The gentlest and most effective remedy for these troubles are the world needs rich blood and plenty of it. There is one way to get this good blood so necessary to perfect health, and that is through the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Dr. Wm. T. R. R. No. 1, Apple Hill, Ont., has proved the great value of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to mothers, and tells her story as follows: "Two years ago, after the birth of my boy, I became very weak and run down. Gradually I lost weight and energy until I was unable to do my housework. I could not sleep; my nerves would twitch and jump so that I arose in the morning with heavy aching limbs and head. Indigestion helped to make the misery worse, and my heart would palpitate terribly. I doctored steadily for a year without getting better, but just dragged along. What you say I would never be well again. But one lucky day, on the advice of a friend, I began to take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I have taken only six boxes, but I wish you could see the difference. I am now able to do my work, go about and enjoy myself. I feel so entirely like a new woman that I feel every week or so I want to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and I know they will be beneficial results." If you are a mother, try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. It is a duty you owe yourself and your family to give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a trial. What your medicine has done for others it will surely do for you. You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills through any dealer in medicine or by mail for 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Heavy Expenditure
For Japan's Militia

Country Uses Forty-Eight Per Cent. of Appropriation.
The Japanese War Office has given out a statement here showing that when special accounts are included, Japan spends 48 per cent. of her national appropriations for military expenditure. Seventeen per cent. of the budget goes to the regular army. Without the special accounts, 21 per cent. goes to combined military expenses and 9 per cent. to the army. In comparison with that, Russia uses 30 per cent. of her budget for military purposes; France, 20 per cent.; Great Britain, 17 per cent.; and the United States 13 per cent.

Japan's per capita tax for military purposes is thirteen sen a year, or about half of Britain's and slightly more than that of the United States.

Triple Crown For Scientist

Charles Valliant, celebrated doctor of La Ribaudiere Hospital, with both sleeves hanging empty, but standing erect and undaunted by misfortune, received at the Hotel De Ville, Paris, an honor unique in history. For the loss of both arms by the use of X-rays during the last 20 years, he was awarded the Triple Crown of the Legion of Honor, a rare honor for a civilian other than the head of the state or a diplomat; the Carnegie Hero Medal, and the Gold Medal of the City of Paris.

Dr. Valliant, who has worked without respite for 25 years at La Ribaudiere Hospital, and who was one of the first French doctors to apply himself exclusively to the use of X-rays, lost the little finger of his right hand in 1915. He was warned at that time that if he did not cease using the rays at once he would lose his whole hand. But he stuck to his work, and since then he has undergone 13 operations, losing finger after finger, then his whole right hand, then the fingers of his left and finally the whole right arm to the shoulder and the left nearly to the elbow.

The remainder of the arm is certain to go before long, when it is feared the cancerous growth started by the burning of the rays will find an easy road to the heart.

Discovers Valuable Painting
Canvas Found By Accident Is Worth Thousands

Some weeks ago John A. Nash bought a collection of inexpensive oil paintings, intending later to reframe them and offer them for sale in his store. During the process of cleaning he came across an old indistinct, stained canvas glued securely to a mahogany board.

Thinking at first that it was of little value, he called in some local connoisseurs, who told him the picture was a genuine Mondrian. After it had been cleaned and revealed the date of 1790 and a distinct signature of the famous artist, Mr. Nash, shortly after, left for New York, where experts valued the painting anywhere from $5,000 to $15,000.

For a United Church
Dr. Wilson is Enthusiastic Over Possibilities of Movement (By J. Lewis Milligan)

The task of preparing the Presbyterian Church for Union with the Methodist and Congregational Churches, to form one United Church of Canada, has been undertaken by Rev. R. J. Wilson, D.D., at the request of the Presbyterian Church-Union Movement Committee. In order to initiate this great and inspiring task, Dr. Wilson has been granted three months' leave of absence from his ministry in Chalmers Church, Kingston.

"There is a thrill in this thing—can't you feel it?" he said to me the other day. "I take no second place to any man in my love for the Presbyterian Church, and if I thought that by Union, we were to lose any of those vital and vigorous qualities that have placed Presbyterians in the front rank of thought and action throughout the world, I would be with Dr. Scott and Mr. Macpherson today."

"You seem to be quite sure that Church Union will be consummated," I said.

"I am as sure of that as I am that the sun will rise tomorrow morning," the doctor replied emphatically. "Can you imagine a progressive people like Canadians never changing the form of their ecclesiastical organizations from that which was made for an entirely different country and a different people? Such a static condition would result in religious stagnation, and I am not so sure but that this is what the churches are suffering from today. Church Union will not usher in the millennium, and it will not finally abolish all the differences in form and creed among Christians, but, so far as Canada is concerned, it will be a stupendous move forward. We believe that the consummation of this Union will give an inspiring lead to Christianity throughout the world. Church Union must come, and will come, despite all these efforts that are being put forward to stop it. Why, then, should we of this generation not share in its benefits? If we, as Presbyterians, do not take this life of God at the door, we shall spend the rest of our lives in shadows and miseries."

It is generally understood that certain qualifications must attach to an application for license under the Alberta Restaurants Act, and folks are wondering why a license was issued to John Gekas, permitting him to open and operate a joint at Hillcrest. John was operating but a few days when his premises were raided and he was hauled before a magistrate's court, where another page was added to a record already well established. As to the casual observer that in case at least the government should shoulder a portion of the guilt.

The tolls taken in at the Panama Canal continue to increase; for the month of January they amounted to $1,500,000. The growing use of the canal and the mounting returns from its operation are causing a revival of the suggestion for another inter-oceanic canal across Central America. It is the belief in Washington that before long the Panama tolls will be sufficient to finance the building of a second canal. Some engineers would favor the construction of the new canal across the Isthmus of Panama; others prefer the route around Lake Nicaragua. The United States government possesses treaty rights over both routes.

At the Coleman council meeting on Tuesday night Mayor Burns reported on his trip to Edmonton and stated that the Minister of Municipal affairs had ruled that the International Coal & Coke Co. is to provide West Coleman with water and improve the present system in Coleman, falling which the boundaries of the town will be extended so as to include the mine plant and other property belonging to the company. This would give Coleman a larger borrowing power and make it possible for the town to finance a water system of its own.
